STRENGTHENING MATERNAL AND NEONATAL CARE: CAPACITY BUILDING WORKSHOPS HELD IN NIKAWERATIYA – MARCH 2025

The Perinatal Society of Sri Lanka successfully organized three targeted Capacity Building Workshops on 19th March 2025 in Nikaweratiya, with the aim of enhancing the competencies of healthcare professionals involved in maternal and neonatal care across the region. These workshops provided valuable opportunities for knowledge-sharing, hands-on training, and inter-professional collaboration to strengthen care delivery and improve health outcomes. The workshops conducted were as follows:

Neonatal Life Support Program

Held at Base Hospital (BH) Nikaweratiya, this hands-on session focused on life-saving skills essential for managing neonatal emergencies. A total of 32 medical officers and nursing officers from the NICU and SCBU units of Base Hospitals in Nikaweratiya, Puttalam, Galgamuwa, and Dambadeniya took part in this vital training

Obstetric Emergencies Program

This interactive workshop brought together 50 healthcare professionals, including medical officers, nursing officers, and Public Health Midwives, from obstetrics and gynecology units of the same four Base Hospitals. Participants were provided with practical training and updates on the timely management of common obstetric emergencies to improve maternal outcomes.

Strengthening Maternal and Perinatal Death Surveillance and Response (MPDSR)

This session was designed for field-level staff, including Medical Officers of Health, Assistant Medical Officers of Health, Public Health Nursing Sisters, and Public Health Midwives from the Polpithigama, Nikaweratiya, Mahawa, Kobeigane, Wariyapola, and Anamaduwa MOH areas. The workshop focused on strengthening the implementation of MPDSR processes and encouraged a culture of continuous learning and accountability to prevent avoidable deaths.

These workshops demonstrated the Society's continued commitment to building capacity at all levels of the healthcare system. By equipping frontline professionals with updated knowledge and critical skills, the Perinatal Society of Sri Lanka reinforced its pivotal role in advancing maternal and neonatal health outcomes in the country.
